MIAMI, Naples—The US military is giving full honors to a Filipino-American military police sergeant who was killed in a head-on attack by insurgents in Kandahar, Afghanistan, on Dec. 22.

True root causes of the insurgency

JUST ONE day after the end of the 2010 Annual Forum of the Philippine AFP launched its new counterinsurgency plan called Oplan Bayan, apparently to end the insurgency in the country within the next year of 2011, the figures in the country are claimed that this is a different from the previous approach because it is now based on civil-military work instead of military operations. Oplan Bayan will be a "new paradigm" called "yolito-salita" and "yolito-salita".

Along with the announcement, the AFP launched the "poor" advisory campaign. Public and private organizations including church groups are expected to participate in different activities and to be working together to create a better society.

With this new civil-military campaign, the AFP government and its military departments are hoping this campaign will be more effective than the previous one.

Now President Aquino, his military advisers and his planning is to end the insurgency in the Philippines. Senator Antonio Trillanes IV
Philippine Senate
Manda

Dear Senator Trillanes,

I am Angelo T. Reyes. I write as an ordinary citizen of this Republic.

With all due respect, I appreciate how busy you are, so I will be as brief as possible.

The Philippine Daily Inquirer issue of 13 January 2011, carried a front page article that quoted the good Senator as having said that "ex-military comptroller Garcia was fronting for a powerful person." The article proceeded to say that you declined to identify the powerful person, but that you had disclosed the name to certain people in Malacañang. The next day issue of the same newspaper carried an article about former Defense and Military Chiefs being linked to the plunder case.

This has fueled a lot of speculation as to who this powerful person is that Garcia is allegedly fronting for.

In the interest of truth, justice and fairness, I believe the good Senator must now identify who this powerful person is. And knowing you to be a forthright and just person, I am confident that when you do name this powerful person, you would be able to substantiate the allegation.

Mr. Senator, you owe it to the ordinary citizens of this Republic that you do this. Please let us not keep the people and the issue hanging.

Very truly yours,

Angelo T. Reyes

BSP keeps close eye on rising inflation

Gov't sees rate settling at 3-5% this year despite fast GDP growth

By Michelle B. Ranco

INFLATION will remain a moderate concern this year despite the faster-than-expected growth of the economy in the fourth quarter of 2010, according to the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas.

Inflation is expected to settle within 3 to 5 percent this year, but remains lower than what the past year has shown, given the economy's robust response in the fourth quarter of 2010.

The economy rebounded as more aggressive domestic product, grew by 7.1 percent in the last three months of the year, exceeding most expectations.

This past fall, the 2010 growth of the economy at 7.3 percent, the fastest pace in 12 years.

The economy's growth is the positive growth indicator along with inflation, and economists said this could signal that the economy has moved out of recession, but inflation is still a concern.

BSP Governor Benjamin Diokno said, however, that accelerated growth of the economy does not necessarily lead to inflation.

According to the latest estimates by the BSP, inflation rate will most likely average at 3.4 percent this year.

Under the most conservative, inflation will settle within a range of 2.8 to 4.2 percent, well within the 3 to 5 percent target.

"We had already incorporated a higher (4.4 percent) 2010 growth rate (than the official projection) (up to one percentage point) in our (inflation) forecast," he said. "The higher than expected 2010 growth would not necessarily show that inflation is out of control," Diokno said.

Moreover, the BSP said the economy had the potential to grow again by 7 percent this year without causing troublesome price increases.

This is because the impact of rising oil and food prices is being offset by rising supply.

Diokno stressed the success in the growth of the economy.

Typically, faster growth and rising inflation lead to higher prices because people are more capable of paying more for the same goods.

But with adequate supply, competition is more likely to keep these prices at control levels.

BSP Deputy Governor Brina Guioa said that the supply of goods was being boosted by international, which grew last year.

The BSP said the economy was in a "sweet spot" last year as it enjoyed both faster economic growth and stable inflation.

Average inflation in 2010 ended at 3.8 percent, down to the lower end of the official target of 3.3 to 5.3 percent.

Diokno said that as long as investment, savings, supply of goods and services should be able to offset the impact of rising demand.

"So long as the controlling of bank kept with the BSP is steady and each bank is committed to productive use, this should not necessarily be inflationary," Diokno said.

LRA's Major Accomplishments

In pursuit of its mandate to protect the integrity of the Title System of land titling and registration in the country and consistent with the commitment of His Excellency President Benigno Aquino III for good governance through his slogan, "Tungo sa Tugat sa Daan," there is a renewed call for the Land Registration Authority to improve its services by evaluating staff and resources, thus ensuring integrity in the public service, improvement of personnel management through efficient and effective performance and moderate our overall service levels.

LAND TITLING COMPUTERIZATION PROJECT (LTCP)

Full implementation of LRA's Land Titling Computerization Project in 181 Registry of Deeds nationwide, which has the objective among others, of securing land titles and related documents, preventing the issuance of duplicate, outdated and overlapping titles, speeds for status verification and amends/improves query on land research and effectively evaluating staff and computer.

✓ LTCP Over-All Status

Out of 181 Registry nationwide, 155 RDs are now operational. As to data conversion, 14.7 million to 24 million titles and documents were already scanned.

✓ Establishment of "Anywhere-to-Anywhere" COV Kiosk

This COV Kiosk is similar to an LTD branch office and is already operational at our pilot site at the Microphysics and Computer Division at the 2nd Floor of LRA Bldg., in East Avenue, Quezon City.

This will enable the public to verify documents and/or issues entitled title copies at 35cc from any Registry of Deeds nationwide.

✓ Establishment of a Customer Service or Help Desk

This will serve as a centralized complaint desk to follow-up the status of transactions. He monitors and suggest improvements to our services.

✓ To provide a better and more efficient payment and collection of Capital Gains Tax on the sale of real property before transfer of title to the buyer.

The LRA initiated this with Commission on Taxation of the BIR to electronically link the LRA with the BIR data bases. The intention being to minimize or remove any need for manual intervention and provide efficient and faster turnaround time for all transactions requiring payment of taxes. Example: The payment of capital gain tax on the sale of real property and the issuance of the corresponding certificate authorizing registration (CAR) will be done at the BIR and electronically transmitted to the concerned LRA Registry who will then cause the recovery transfer of title. Note that under this scheme, there is no room for "negotiation" or any "amalgamation" for the amount of taxes to be paid.

An Administrative Order was issued on October 8, 2010 forming the LRA Technical Working Group to spearhead the connectivity effort.

PROFESSIONALISM

Regularly conduct meetings with the Real Estate Industry partners such as Real Estate Land Corp., Chamber of Real Estate and Builders Association (CREBA), Society of Real Estate Professionals (SREP), Philippine Real Estate Division of the Philippine Real Estate Association of Realtors (PREAR), Philippine Association of Realtors (PAR), and the Philippine Association of Realtors (PAR).

work ethics of all officials as well as risk-end the employees exposed to the poverty threat of the current administration in professionalism.

DRIVE AGAINST FAKE LAND TITLES

✓ Strengthening the Task Force Titleding Malinis (TFTM)

Submitted implementation of LRA Circular No. 98-12 and LRA Circular No. 98-12 in authorizing the Registry of Deeds to confiscate potentially fake titles that are transacted in the Registry and to make a list thereof for proper investigation and action.

Confiscated a total of 1,170 fake titles (as of August 4, 2010 to present).

Losing weight fast after childbirth? Your gallbladder could be in trouble

By Joyce College-Victoria
Crista Baler

I GAINED about 40 lbs while I was pregnant. I knew it would take about a year to lose it, and I wasn't in a rush. But surprisingly I lost most of the weight quickly and at about the 27th I was back to normal weight, my friends and my observations were checking me out, more when I wasn't doing anything significant, notice the baby weight. They couldn't believe the number of pounds lost.

I was eating normally and didn't have the time or energy to exercise, but I was taking sleep. By week 4, I had lost 30 lbs without even trying.

When I had severe stomach and back pain and was eating exactly a month after giving birth, my husband took me to the ER. I was diagnosed with pancreatitis and sent home with a tube. The next day I was back at the ER, this time with my dad, to see more serious signs of pancreatitis.

Extremely, this afternoon, one of my friends & I drove to the ER. I had the same symptoms as the woman mentioned on Facebook that I might be having pancreatitis. I had quickly gained it, and all the symptoms. I then realized they call my gastroenterologist and realize the possibility.

Heartburn during pregnancy

Time enough, after an ultrasound of my upper abdomen the morning after, pancreatitis was found in my extreme life. How could this be? Ultrasounds of my belly were taken frequently while I was pregnant. And, all my readings on pregnancy and tests, I had never mentioned anything regarding the possibility of pancreatitis to my obstetrician.

On February 1, I could have been having pancreatitis attacks even while I was pregnant. Pancreatitis is a common pregnancy complication, especially in the last trimester, and I had it at the end of pregnancy.

Two days before I delivered my baby by emergency C-section, I went to the hospital complaining about severe back pain that wouldn't let up. I was hooked up to a fetal monitor and was told I was already having contractions every five minutes (and I wasn't dilated), that I was having labor (and if the pain was not consistent, and that I had severe urinary tract infection (also common among pregnant women). But the location of the pain wasn't in the "right" area for such findings. But since I was pregnant, the possibility of pancreatitis didn't even come up, despite a test day ultrasound.

During pregnancy, levels of the hormones estrogen and progesterone are higher, which allows the gallbladder from contracting and doing its emptying process. When the baby is in the gallbladder, it's more likely to become congested and form stones. About 12 percent of women develop gallstones while they're pregnant and have significant symptoms that may then require surgical removal of the gallbladder, either during pregnancy or in the immediate postpartum period.

These women are more prone to developing gallstones, often possibly just at the end of pregnancy and long on the postpartum period, sometimes in the middle of gallbladder problems, too.

Two procedures in two days

Days when I was the one who asked the possible diagnosis to the doctor. In the end, pancreatitis was found as a result to me when he said I had gallstones common life story, which was causing the pain, and that my gallbladder would have to go.

This second two procedures in two days were done at an endoscopic retrograde cholangiopancreatography (ERCP), and a laparoscopic cholecystectomy (lap chole). For the ERCP Dr. Dr. took out the gallstones from the bile duct through my stomach, for the lap chole, the surgeon made about four small incisions on my abdomen and took the gallbladder out through the incision on my waist.

Both procedures kept me in the hospital for three and a half days, and the pain in between made it the worst week of my life. Not only did my poor husband have to be in the hospital and preoccupied day almost equal to those from my child's birth, but he also had to make me go through the pain with me.

The pain was unbearable. I felt like I was
